¡Hola, Avispas!
October is here, Hornets! The leaves are changing, the weather is cooling down, and fall is bringing a new season of memories, opportunities, and campus traditions. Whether you're grabbing your favorite pumpkin spice latte, enjoying the cooler weather, cheering on our Hornets, or spending time with friends, there's something special about this time of year at Sac State!

But with all the fall fun comes something we can't forget: midterm season! 📚

As exams, projects, and deadlines start piling up, remember to give yourself time to prepare. Find your favorite study spot, grab a warm latte, organize your notes, and start studying early. Don't wait until the night before to get everything done! A little preparation each day can make a big difference.

And while your academics are important, so is taking care of yourself. Get enough sleep, take breaks, check in with your friends, and remember that asking for help is a sign of strength. Your college experience is about more than grades; it's about growing, finding balance, and making memories along the way.

October is also a time to celebrate! From Homecoming festivities and campus events to Halloween activities and cozy fall evenings, there are plenty of opportunities to connect with your fellow Hornets. Take a break from studying, attend an event, try something new, and enjoy everything our Hive has to offer.

As we continue celebrating 70 years of ASI, let's remember that our Hornet community is built on the students who show up, support one another, and make Sacramento State feel like home.

In service, Sergio Antonio Maciel Montoya
