Hello Hornets,

I hope you're all doing well and finding time to breathe now that midterms are behind us! As we wrap up the fall season and head deeper into November, I want to wish everyone a Happy Autumn and encourage you to enjoy the cozy weather and beautiful colors around campus.

Over the past few weeks, I've been focused on researching and preparing several pieces of legislation that will be introduced in our next cycle, so stay tuned! I've also been making progress on our strategic priorities, continuing the work we started earlier this year to strengthen resources and opportunities for students.

As we move toward finals and the end of the semester, remember to pace yourselves, stay warm, and lean on your teams for support. Take time to recharge, appreciate how far you've come, and check out some of the great events happening around campus this month as the air gets chillier.

We've accomplished so much already this semester, let's carry that momentum forward and finish strong.

In service,

Sergio Antonio Maciel Montoya

Strategic Priorities Updates:

Sergio Maciel

ASI Vice President of Finances

As we move forward, our next steps should focus on strengthening cross-campus collaboration to maximize the impact of each Strategic Priority. We should look to meet with PEAK, the Carlsen Center, the CARCs, and key student representatives to explore alignment across initiatives—ranging from career readiness and innovation to campus safety, affordability, accessibility, and inclusion. These discussions will help identify shared goals, coordinate event planning, and streamline funding for greater student benefit. Additionally, by expanding upon our existing case files and reviewing the underlying logic of previous initiatives, we can ensure our approach remains data-informed, student-centered, and strategically consistent. This proactive framework will not only enhance interdepartmental partnerships but also amplify ASI's student impact across academic, financial, and wellness-related priorities.
