News:

Hey Hornets! Hopefully everyone's October and start to November are going great. This third month of the year was a significant one for the ASI Board of Directors, as we truly were established in our roles and had a full month to work effectively on our roles and priorities. With the first few months of my term having more time to attend events and be active in the community, this month my focus was on getting our committees filled and working away at strategic priorities. This month we also passed a Resolution in Opposition to the proposed 4th year of Quantitative reason requirement for CSU Admission. I along with our President, took the lead on authoring and passing the resolution, and our OGA team has been hard at work with our advocacy since it was passed. Learning the process of legislation that was not passed unanimously was valuable to our board and I see us gaining the ability to have more in-depth discussions in the future because of the experience.

My plans for November follow the trend of October, continued work on filling committees and strategic priority completion. Though I do not anticipate another potential threat to students that we must advocate against, I will continue to work closely with our OGA team to advocate for our students if one does.
