Special Note for Hornets:

Hello Hornets,

We're now well into the semester, and I hope you're feeling more comfortable with your courses and the flow of campus life. At this stage, you've probably faced some obstacles and discovered some wins along the way—both are great indicators that you're growing and pushing yourself!

This is a reminder that you don't have to go through it all alone. Whether it's tackling tough academic problems, managing your time, or balancing personal commitments, support is always available. I encourage you to take advantage of the campus resources, be it for academic guidance, mental health support, or simply to get more involved in activities that bring you joy.

Check ASI social media platforms regularly for updates on events, opportunities, and ways to engage with the NSM community. It's never too late to get involved, meet new people, and make meaningful connections that can support you through the rest of your college experience.

Keep pushing forward—you're doing great! Let's finish this semester strong, together.
