A Special Note to Our Hornets

Welcome back from Spring Break Hornets,

I hope you guys were able to rejuvenate during break so we can all push through the second half of the semester. I have received positive responses from the emails that I have been sending out to your program coordinators to relay my messages. Keep an eye out for your emails as I will continue to keep sending updates of the resources and events that Sacramento State is offering.

Graduate School and the University Graduate Coordinators of Sacramento State presents the Grad Slam competition on Tuesday, April 20th from 5:00pm – 6:00pm. Come celebrate with your fellow graduate students when they have three minutes to present their exciting research. Great way to see what your students are working on and ideas for your future research.

Lastly, the Director of Graduate Studies position is vacant for the next academic year. If you are looking to work with high profile faculty members and ambitious students, then this is a great opportunity for you. Applications will be open in the summer if you are interested in it. If you have any questions about the position, please do not hesitate to email me.

Stingers up,

Wayne Cheung
